

While You're on Your Way

Poco

Making love has been as much as I could hope it would be
And every night has been like one night to me
You got me feeling again
The feeling you gave me before
But to you those nights like any other night
Tonight is just one more
Don't try to tell me that you care enough to love me
When you can't even do the things I need you to do
Don't make me listen words you think will please me
When pleasing me don't mean anything to you
Just one more night makes no difference as long
There's another night to make right
When you did wrong
The last days we had with one another will have to do
While your on your way
