The House That Mercy Built

Point Of Grace

A light in the distance Welcomes those wayfaring souls Come this far A heart grows tired, faith grows cold Wandering down the winding road Just simply knock, the door will open

There is a house that mercy built There is a place where brokenness is healed There is a voice saying peace be still There is a house that mercy built

Mercy will find you Though you've given up In the middle of what seems like nowhere He'll shelter you beneath His wing His love will cover every need Just simply seek and you will find

There is a house that mercy built There is a place where emptiness is filled There is a voice saying peace be still There is a house that mercy built

There is a house that mercy built With blood and tears We've nothing left to fear We live in grace Here in the safe embrace of God The mercy of God

There is a house that mercy built There is a place where grace has Been revealed There is a voice saying peace be still There is a house that mercy built Rest in the hope Rest in the peace There is a house that mercy built
