

All That Matters

Pointed Sticks

When we're at a dance
It's as if I'm in a trance
I can't see anyone but you
The music may be loud
But despite the sound
I hear you whisper in my ear

All that matters is you love me and I love you
All that matters is you love me and I love you
And that's all that ever has

When I get a drink
I don't even think
I just share it with you
Because when we're together
It's like there is no other
People in the room

All that matters is you love me and I love you
All that matters is you love me and I love you
And that's all that ever has

All that matters is you love me and I love you
All that matters is you love me and I love you
And that's all that ever has

And if love is blind
Then I'm the kind
To take a course in braille
And when I'm through
I'll only talk to you
Because I only want to say

All that matters is you love me and I love you
All that matters is you love me and I love you
And that's all that ever has
All that matters
All that matters
All that matters is you love me and I love you
