

See The Wind

Polar Bear Club

No rhyme in relics passed the hands that made
The storytelling, the times, beg for change
Can we stand for reason and the things we know are sound?
See, I chewed the bitter pill. Did you just swallow down?

This year I did away with riding fences
When it comes to doubt and be damned, I'll take my chances

There are days I catch the sunrise and it hits me like it does
But I don't see a tailor's trademark, I see light and dust
Miss Street-Prophet in the black car, she's not alone
She saw something in my face, living easy with the unknown

We talk of religion. She asks if I'm seeing
She asks if I can see the wind

Can we stand for the reason and the things we know are sound?
See, I chewed the bitter pill. Did you just swallow down?

All we live for is now or never (All we live for)
All we live for is now or never (Now or never)

Live with all your nature live with light on the narrators
Now or never
