Elegant Design

Every day's the same, devoid of anything Walking around the broken fences and see never empty land But I don't really mind, it's just so hard to find Black and [?] the rain's gone for a little piece of mind

All I'm trying to define is the elegant design It's gonna take so many words, I'm tripping fast for time Mountains crash into the sea, but it doesn't seem to worry me I only think of you

Take the busy way that's what my friends all say But I don't think they really get the point of elegant sweet da Y I'm sure it's gonna end, I may not have any friends But at the end of the day, I think I'll be okay if I work it ou t instead
