Too Much Of Not Enough

Porcelain Black

You were everything I wanted but nothing that I needed
Talking like you're baby Jesus, dressed up and high on blow
You're acting like you're hot shit, you should be embarrassed
You're just a bitch and a fraud and honey, everybody knows that
There's a war inside your head so fall back 'cause we are dead

You're too much of not enough, not a reason left to trust
Don't believe you when you say, you say you're gonna change
Too much of not enough so I gotta give you up
'Cause nothing's gonna change

Do me wrong once, shame on you
Do me wrong twice, fuck you
It was never me and you, never me and you
Always about you

Do me wrong once, shame on you
Moving on, you're so confused
It was never me and you, never me and you
Never trust a fool

You were always so heated and you didn't even see it
Trippin' up and defeated, around and around we go
I would've wrote you a love song but you had to go and do me wrong
So listen up, I wish you luck, I'm done with the high and lows
Now there's a war inside my head, oh, look at what you did

You're too much of not enough, not a reason left to trust
Don't believe you when you say, you say you're gonna change
Too much of not enough so I gotta give you up
'Cause nothing's gonna change

Do me wrong once, shame on you
Do me wrong twice, fuck you
It was never me and you, never me and you
Always about you

Do me wrong once, shame on you
Moving on, you're so confused
It was never me and you, never me and you
Never trust a fool

There's not enough drugs in the world to alter my memory of you
Not even a bump of cocaine, a Vicodin or a glass of champagne
