Great Expectations

Porcupine Tree

A summer day In garlands I feel secure A useless faith That I will get you, somehow

Reach out, I wonder where you are now

Hey, there's you With placid eyes Oblivious to what's to come

They locked you up So I forgot you Forgot your name, so strange I wonder if you got out