Whatever Makes You Happy

Powderfinger

If we never make it back to how far we've come along this way We search around for solid ground that will help to carry us aw ay If the memories I left throw the light that helps to guide you through We trickle down to our goodbyes but a part of me will stay with you

What we've spoken over time Never broken or compromised

Dream on together Leaning against each other However it happens I hope it's Whatever makes you happy
