

Late at night, those restless longings Start to drown me to the street
Fools like me seek adventure Search for thrills to somehow feel complete

So I break the reigns when the sound of chains stop resowning in my dreams
I can only hear my pounding heart though the voice of reason screams

Living in the faithful heart
This temptation to risk it all and throw the years away Then I hear your voice, it whispers: "come home and love me"
I have no choice, I must obbey

On my own, lost and searching Cross the heart scapes of the night
I reach below, there's only darkness
'Til the last and distant break of light

And I see the girl who has been my world since I can't remember when
Now the glitter of night starts to fade from sight when I see your face again

Living in the faithful heart
This temptation to risk it all and throw the years away
Then I hear your voice, it whispers: "come home and
love me"
I have no choice, I must obbey

When my dreams start tearing at the seams like the wornable jeans of wearing When my heart stops running out the clock and it feels like a matter of time
When they kill somebody to resist it's nothing more than my illusion
I see your eyes and suddenly I realize

Living in the faithful heart
This temptation to risk it all and throw the years away
Then I hear your voice, it whispers: "come home and
love me"
I have no choice, I must obbey

Living in the faithful heart