

Something Magic

Procol Harum

In the center of the storm
Something magic being born
When the world is torn apart
By the beating of a heart

Like a dam about to burst
Like a drunkard's crazy thirst
In the center of the storm
Something magic being born

It's the dark hours of the soul
When the nightmares take their toll
When the shadows come to mock
Against the ticking of the clock

When the demons of the night
Come like vultures for their bite
In the dark hours of the soul
When the nightmares take their toll

It's the dawning of the day
Night-time's panic swept away
When the clouds which seemed so dark
Are exchanged for morning's lark

When the stars which burnt so bright
Are exchanged for morning's light
In the dawning of the day
Nigh-time's panic swept away

Nigh-time's panic swept away