The World

Punchline

By your look should I have something to say? Well the question wasn't that in a day and I took some time to mess up my life and Its almost perfect let me get this right We were different added together and

Congratulations I guess you're always right Well I'm sorry that I ever tried What happened to the world we knew? We were so much better than Thisâ?:

Memories destroyed by disease And they're buried under letters full of words You never meant to say The reaction was greater than the screen We were the difference added together and

Congratulations I guess you're always right Well I'm sorry that I ever tried What happened to the world we knew? We were so much better than this

I didn't feel like this the whole time But it didn't help when you made your predictions, yeah We crossed this bridge, crossed it sometime ago But I didn't know, I didn't know you would move on

Congratulations I guess you're always right Well I'm sorry that I ever tried What happened to the world we knew? We were so much better than this So much better than

Congratulations I guess you're always right (you're always righ t) Well I'm sorry that I ever tried What happened to the world we knew? We were so much better than this So much better than this So much better than this