Purity Ring - Fineshrine Lyrics

Get a little closer let it fold Cut open my sternum and pull My little ribs around you

Those arms may be under, under you I'll take the South pockets gladly Over the rocky cliffs that you leap To peer over and not forget what feet are spreading threads of thunder over me

But i might see with my chest and sink Into the edges round you Into the lakes and quarries that brink On all the edges round you, round you

Get a little closer let it fold
Cut open my sternum and pull
My little ribs around you
Through arms that may be crowns over you (??)
Get a little closer let it fold
Cut open my sternum and pull
My little ribs around you
Though arms may be under, under you

I'll take the South pockets likely
Over the rocky cliffs that you leap
To peer over and not forget what feet are Spreading threads of thunder over me

Listen closely, closely to the floor Emitting all its graces through the pores You'd make a fine shrine in me You'll build a fine shrine in me But I must see with my chest and sink To the edges round you Into the lakes and quarries that brink On all the edges round you, round you

Get a little closer let it fold
Cut open my sternum and pull
My little ribs around you
Through arms that may be crowns over you (??)
Get a little closer let it fold
Cut open my sternum and pull
My little ribs around you
Though arms may be under, under you
