Two by Two

You've left at last, I knew you could Leaving nothing to remember you by Except how to be happy And how not to care any more Two by two, these things weren't meant for you Your call never came, I wish that it would, So I could have something to remember you by Besides the way we fell to pieces And how not to feel anything Two by two, these things weren't meant for you It rains today, or are those tears Falling from the moon above That bell in my head It'll ring 'til I'm dead.
