

Something New

Rains

You put yourself into familiar moments
You put yourself in a particular mindset
You put yourself into familiar places

You get yourself so ready to go now
As if the same will meet all your expectations
Why don't you try and open up your fears
To a world unwilling to let you hold them up

Why don't you try something new
Why don't you let your hopes and dreams come
Back to you

Everyone says to live for the moment
Take a step back and live like you own it
Act like a child and live for today
With free will, daydreams and nothing on your shoulders

Why don't you try something new
Why don't you let your hopes and dreams come
Back to you

Why don't you try something new
Why don't you let your hopes and dreams come
Back to you

You put yourself in a familiar moment
You put yourself in a particular mindset
Why don't you try and open up your fears
To a world unwilling to let you hold them up

Why don't you try something new
Why don't you let your hopes and dreams come
Back to you

Why don't you try something new
Why don't you let your hopes and dreams come
Back to you