

Undone

Bonnie Raitt

There's a sword at the tip of my tongue
That shows no mercy on the latest one
I was wrong with all my might
I took you out in one last round tonight

Now there's no more shouting and no more tears
Just the fatal words ringing in our ears
And in the silence it's crystal clear
There's no undoing what has happened here

We've come undone, we've come undone
Battle waged and nothing won
Oh, what have I done? The blood has run
Some things can't be undone

We hurt the ones we love the most
A thousand memories go up in smoke
And in the morning when the ashes fall
There'll be no need for any words at all

We've come undone, we've come undone
Battle waged and nothing won
Oh, what have I done? The blood has run
Some things can't be undone

But there's no joy in victory
Oh, when it comes at your defeat

We've come undone
Lord, what have I done?
Some things can't be undone
Oh, some things can't be undone