

The Moment She Died

Ram-Zet

Far away from sanity your screaming gives me pleasure the only reason I let you live... is that I want to feel your fright

I fear for my life I sensed it to late the journey has come to an end now

One second away from destruction I'm filled with equanimity hate has given me this power to immortalize your pain

I wish you could see that all that I ever wanted was you to know me from time to time I thought that I did but no I see so clear my devil is really just you then when I try to act like you say it always brings me pain so I'm sorry but now you're dead your dream is your truth and visions of insanity claims you to be your own enemy your lifeless corpse on the bed in front of me feel the serenity encircle your mind close your eyes as I put you to death the moment is here...

To late to escape to late to forget I scream as you take my hand...

And as I watch you glance to the sky it feels like nothing's changed I'm still alone
I've always been and suddenly as fear comes to mind she's on the other side it is the fact the bitch is dead and though my distant light I see once again that this one last fright this final motion makes me realize the onyl truth and I feel no pain as the light blows out
