

Slip Away

Ray Charles

Outside the wind blows it ? the sound of your name
Yesterdays over tomorrow is still more of the same

When i saw you leaving I wished that I'd take you to stay
I stood in silence as you slowly slipped away

Slip away, slip away
How could I ever let you slip away

Slip away, slip away
Right through my fingers I let you slip away

If I could have told you the things that I felt in my heart
But its heart to hold on to love when its falling apart
And now that its over there's nothing more i can say except that I'm sorry for saying too little too late

Slip away, slip away
How could I ever let you slip away

Slip away, slip away
Right through my fingers I let you slip away
Right through my fingers I let you slip away