

Oh My Love

Rea Garvey

I'm lost and found as I lay my head
I'm a thousand miles from the home we've made I heard your words as the call came through from that house of cards that I share with you

And I believe we both decide to take a stand or run and hide
And if you disagree then I'm the fool
And I've always had too much to say
And lucidly I found my way
But it's served me well
Cause I found you

I won't let go of the heart I know
I see your smile in an open door
as you wait for me and my return
With my feet here on this foreign soil
You know I'd walk those thousand miles
So you and I we could be, oh be together now

Oh my love oh my love
Oh my love oh my love
Oh my love we could be
And oh my love am I loud enough
Can you hear me where you are
And oh my love am I loud enough
Can you hear me where you are

I won't let go on the heart I know
I see your smile in an open door
as you wait for me and my return
With my feet here on this foreign soil
You know I'd walk those thousand miles
So you and I we could be, oh be together now

Oh my love oh my love
Oh my love oh my love
Oh my love we could be, oh be together now
Oh my love oh my love
Oh my love oh my love
Oh my love we could be

And when the nights are bitter cold
And the loneliness is at your door
Remember how we fought it off before
The candle light you watched it burn
Like sailors wives till their men return
The ocean sky will bring me home once more

And I won't let go on the heart I know
I see your smile in an open door
as you wait for me and my return
With my feet here on this foreign soil
You know I'd walk those thousand miles
So you and I we could be, oh be together now

Oh my love oh my love
Oh my love oh my love
Oh my love we could be, oh be together now

Oh my love oh my love
Oh my love oh my love
Oh my love we could be

And oh my love am I loud enough
Can you hear me where you are
And oh my love am I loud enough
Can you hear me where you are
