I Don't Think Love Oughta Be That Way

Reba McEntire

Oh, I'm feeling so fine and you're looking so good And I'd like to get together Oh Lord, I wish we could But there's someone at home Who's depending on me And boy they'd never know it If I set my passions free

But I don't think love ought to be that way No I don't think love ought to be that way I could tell him a lie And I know I'd get by But I don't think love ought to be that way

You say a precious moment Is all that it would be That I'd forget about you And you'd forget me Oh I love what you're saying It's tempting me so And though I love to hear it There's no way that I'll let go

But I don't think love ought to be that way No I don't think love ought to be that way I could tell him a lie And I know I'd get by But I don't think love ought to be that way

No But I don't think love ought to be that way No I don't think love ought to be that way I could tell him a lie And I know I'd get by But I don't think love ought to be that way

But I don't think love ought to be that way No I don't think love ought to be that way I could tell him a lie And I know I'd get by But I don't think love ought to be that way

But I don't think love ought to be that way No I don't think love ought to be that way I could tell him a lie And I know I'd get by But I don't think love ought to be that way
