

Color Of One

Red Wanting Blue

I'm green
I'm envy
Trapped in a little crayon box
And I have seen my ending
If yellow and blue stop shaking hands
This situation I'm in all depends...

Chorus:

If we can blend the brown and red
With the yellow and the white
After all, what are we defending?
If we can blend the brown and red
With the yellow and the white
We might stop this unhappy ending

Now, how long can we bend without breaking?
Can a colored world still make amends?
And as we draw ourselves outside the lines
Making new colors we can't define
We'll find it's too hard choosing sides

Repeat Chorus

Suit yourself
It's a colored world, where all depends upon the falling stars
And remembering all the scars that haunt us in this life
With color cutting like a knife

Believe
We look the same when we bleed
Shot you down
Do we need to compete?
And as the rainbow falls apart
We want a new start
We all want a new start
Everybody wants a new start
We all want a new start

Repeat Chorus (2x)

Now...
Stop the ending now
As the rainbow falls apart
We all want a new start
We all want a new start
