The New Version of You

Reel Big Fish

When did you quit pulling all of the stops for me And when did your one hundred and ten per-cent Become under fifty There you are phoning it in Going through the motions with an artificial grin You say that you're getting better You say that you're getting better

You say you're becoming a better person One that isn't so lame You say you're becoming a better person But I still feel the same

It's the new, it's the new, new version of you It's the new, it's the new, new version of you It's the new, it's the new, new version of you If there's one thing I'd like to do It's kill the new version of you

When did you start wearing all of those clothes to be cool And when did you start using all that slang? I can't understand you I bet you'd forget to say "I love you" If the teleprompter hadn't told you You say that you're getting better You say that you're getting better

You say you're becoming a better person One that isn't so lame You say you're becoming a better person But I still feel the same

It's the new, it's the new, new version of you It's the new, it's the new, new version of you It's the new, it's the new, new version of you If there's one thing I'd like to do It's kill the new version of you

Who are you? I don't know now You got me wondering I wonder How you got to be so different now

You say you're becoming a better person One that isn't so lame You say you're becoming a better person But I still feel the same I still feel the same

It's the new, it's the new, new version of you It's the new, it's the new, new version of you It's the new, it's the new, new version of you If there's one thing I'd like to do It's kill the new version of you
