What You Are To Me

Regine Velasquez

The scent of flowers
That fills the tranquil air
The sound of lovebirds
That seems to be eveywhere

These are what you are to me Each moment that you're there

A ray of sunshine That finds its way in The smooth and gentle breeze That softly kisses my skin

These are what you are to me As my day would begin

Each morning when I open my eyes
I find myself more in love with you
Each second makes up a minute
That leads to an hour of thinking of us two

Each wish that I make before I sleep Is for us to be together I pray Each year I have 365 dreams
About you and me
That our love will always stay

You're a friend to me
You're my family
You're my pillar of strength
Someone I aspire to be
These are what you are to me
You fill my soul with glee

When the sun appears
When the stars begin to hide
You are my shinning light
You are my source of pride
These are what you are to me
You're always by my side

My world revolves around you That's how it would turn out But I believe this says What love is all about
