Fast Movin Train

Restless Heart

She had a long line of lovers Mostly the gambling kind I didn't want to be like the others And get left behind I heard about her bad reputation And how she had a heart of stone How she'd give a man A moment of pleasure To get what she want.

I had a weakness for her kind of woman I could never deny I knew I would never see it coming Until I was lost in her eyes The more I tried to keep her at a distance The more I became aware She was breaking down my resistance Till I no longer cared.

Tonight I saw the red red rose In a yellow moon Shining on a silhouette Lying in the shadows of my bedroom I knew it when we made love And I couldn't quit calling her name And I've been hit by another fast movin' train I've been hit by another fast movin' train.

I wondered as I lay there and held her Why can't this be real? Why the fear wouldn't let me tell her How could she make me feel I doubt it if she would even be around When the moment comes I waited till she fell asleep To whisper Baby, look what you've done.

Tonight I saw the red red rose In a yellow moon Shining on a silhouette Lying in the shadows of my bedroom I knew it when we made love And I couldn't quit calling her name And I've been hit by another fast movin' train

Tonight I saw the red red rose In a yellow moon Shining on a silhouette Lying in the shadows of my bedroom I knew it when we made love And I couldn't quit calling her name And I've been hit by another fast movin' train I've been hit by another fast movin' train.