

Woman's Ways

Richard Lloyd

(Lloyd)

Why do you cry when the night time comes?
Why do you sigh when the evening is done?
I guess there's a lot about a woman's ways
That I don't understand.
Why do you lie when the truth is known?
Why do you sigh so when I get home?
I guess there's a lot about a woman's ways
That I don't understand.
But any time that you want to leave,
You know I'll let you go,
And any time that you want to stay
You'll let me know, I know , I know.
Why do you lie? I don't want to know,
And then you come around saying so, so so.
I guess there's a lot about a woman's ways
That I don't understand.
Oh come on and see me now, baby please,
I guess there's a lot about a woman's ways
That I don't understand.
Any time you want to leave I'll see you walk away,
But any timen' that you want to stay,
You know you can remain.
Why do you cry when the night time comes?
Why do you sigh when the evening is done?
I guess there's a lot about a woman's ways
That I don't understand.
Why do you lie when the truth is known?
Why do you sigh so when I get home?
I guess there's a lot about a woman's ways
That I don't understand.
