Cressida

Richard Thompson

Love that holds its breath for fear Of scaring love away I rush my lines, I care too deeply Oh, will she keep me for idle games?

I raise my eyes to see her there Shining in a daydream I raise my eyes, I see too much I know her touch, what her touch would mean

I stare into, I stare into The dying flames