

Believe in Me

Rick Springfield

They'll be a time when everyone is left alone, and I'll have mine
There is no doubt when everyone has worn me out and gone
When everybody's had their fill, she'll be waiting, she's waiting still
And though she doesn't know I know,
I know she wouldn't mind

Cause having someone believe in me, is all I need to know
And standing all alone, is not the way I want to go

And if I get to be a star, or maybe no where near that far
I know that either way it doesn't matter much to her
And if I'm on my dying bed and suddenly my life is bled away from me,
I know she'll shed a tear because she cares

Cause having someone believe in me, is all I need to know
And standing all alone, is not the way I want to go

And if I get to be a star, or maybe no where near that far
I know that either way it doesn't matter much to her
And if I'm on my dying bed and suddenly my life is bled away from me,
I know she'll shed a tear because she cares

Cause having someone believe in me, is all I need to know
And standing all alone, is not the way I want to go
