Emotional

Christ, you're already gone And I thought it'd take longer to kill you And a month is no time at all No time to reach down and erase you

You're so emotional In the light of your mom's front room I'm a thoughtless beast Afraid of everything And it's how you choose to see it Strength or human needs

You're so emotional In the light of your mom's front room I'm so emotional In the unforgiving light of the moon

And you lost your way home And it feels familiar And crickets guide you back And you hear them calling And it sounds familiar And they might help you out

It's so hard

Emotional In the light of your mom's front room You're so emotional In the light of the marquee moon

Rilo Kiley