

You Bring the Party Down

Ringo Starr

I woke up this morning and opened my eyes
I made myself some coffee and then I realized
Some people are good, some people are bad
Some people are crazy and some are still so sad
When you're in town
You bring the party down

The times are changing but you don't understand
Still living off your memories
When you were in the band
You're loaded up on this, you're loaded up on that
Your mind is just so twisted
You don't know where you're at.

When you make that sound
You bring the party down.

I tried to help you time and time again
I thought you'd listen..to me...your dear old friend
I tried my best, I did what I can
You never listened, you just don't understand.

When you're around
You bring the party down.

I tried my best, I did what I can
You never listened, you just don't understand.

When you're around
You bring the party down.
When you're around
You bring the party down.
