My Problem

Robert Cray

It's my own problem
That I have to face
Right here, all by myself

It's my own fault, yes it is
I'm so ashamed
Can't blame it on no one else

She was once my everything
I sit here alone wondering
Just where did I go wrong?

I've got a problem
She used to love me
But oh, I really, really misused that girl
I did

I took all the love that I wanted
All I thought I needed
To satisfy my selfish world
Yes I did

And she never asked for anything
And all the time she was suffering
And right now, I've got a problem

What was I doing?
I never noticed all the tears
The signs and the warnings
How could I have been so blind all those years?

I missed all the signals
That she tried real hard to show
I got so hung up on myself, man
I didn't even want to know

Oh, yeah, and that's my problem
A no good-bye
Am I even worth one more chance?
I don't think so

And there's no use
No use to even try
Yeah, I'll just have to make some other plans
Yes I will

'Cause I just lost my everything
I sit all alone wondering
Just where did I go wrong?

Oh, yeah
That's my problem
