

Show The World

Robert Earl Keen

There was a time not so long ago
When the sun shone down on a world moving easy and slow
There was love in the air
More than enough of for everyone to have their share
Now the day has turned to night
But before we lose the light
Here's what we got to do

Give your heart, lend a hand
Say you will, say you can
Don't let you love ever end
Show the world you are a friend

There is a child not so far away
Livin' in the rubble where there ain't no place to play
Weary women, broken men
Are in a sea of trouble and they got no strength to swim
Now the day has turned to night
But before they loose the fight
Here's what we got to do

Give your heart, lend a hand
Say you will, say you can
Don't let you love ever end
Show the world you are a friend

Open up your door and step into the blue
There's always something more we can do
Here's what we got to do

Give your heart, lend a hand
Say you will, say you can
Don't let you love ever end
Show the world you are a friend
