

A New Flower

Robert Miles

Staring at her straight in the eyes...
So profoundly, almost able to see, understand something invisible,
intangible pure and innocent or simply spontaneous.
Seeking the touch the breath and the warmth of that body with eyes half closed, she listened to the beat of her heart and ... she smiled.
.. Like ... a succession of shivers...
running through your bones.
In the air...
invisible
energy provides
the key to global understanding without words
The Universal language...