

When I Heard Your Name

Robin Trower

I had the strangest thought
When I heard your name.
My mind keep racing
When someone spoke your name.

Here I am, surviving,
Like some graveyard ghost
They said your life is flying
Out on the coast.

I had the strangest thought
When I heard your name.
My mind keep racing
When someone spoke your name.

When you'll be back around
To the neighborhood
Go to the lost and found,
Yeah, if you think you should.

Back before the gold rush
Infection in our blood,
Oh, every stars together, just like a flood.

I had the strangest thought
When I heard your name.
Yeah, I had the strangest thought
When I heard your name.

I've become divided
By some minturing law
I thought I always want you
Not anymore.

I had the strangest thought
When I heard your name.
I had the strangest thought
When I heard your name.

I had the strangest thought
When I heard your name.
I had the strangest thought
When I heard your name.

I had the strangest thought
When I heard your name.
I had the strangest thought
When I heard your name.
I had the strangest thought
When I heard your name.
