Sometimes life can be a bumpy ride Sometimes it feels like You're drivin' with covered eyes And you listen to your friend who's in the car by your side

They say they've got your map what if your friends are Tellin' lies
So listen to you heart 'cause you can't see no roadsigns
You don't know where to stop or where to turn

Everyone goes through it I'm in the middle of mine And I try to remember it's the only way to learn Hold on (you've gotta hold on)
Hold on (you've gotta hold on)

You gotta stay real true to yourself in the game Of Becomin' a woman where the rules never stay the same Remember who you are, who made you and who's keepin' you here Who's makin' you not duck for problems in fear?

People in your way, dogs and bitches Who's lickin' your ass?, Lairs and snitches Even though it's a bumpy ride Keep your head above the water line

Keep focused and you'll make it through
Keep on rollin' is what you've got to do
Even though it's a bumpy ride don't you slip and
Don't you slide

Love will be there in the end when you come around that bend You've gotta keep your flow smooth, never hesitate
Never stop believin' always keepin' the faith
But always be critical never naive

'Cause if you can be that there's so much more you can achieve Maybe then when you're grown up satisfied and strong Maybe then you will be happy, happy that you held on
