Everything A Heart Could Ever Want...

Roger Daltrey

She comes home late And I've waited long Then she sings me lines From the songs I used to sing When I was young Then I feel alright Cause she's that kind of girl A woman child A free young spirit In a jaded world And she knows me Shows me Lets me see She's everything a heart could ever want (Willow) When I call her name (Willow) Will she still hear me when She's everything a heart could ever want (Willow) When she looks at me (Willow) Her eyes just say it all She always puts me right When I turn up wrong Never walks away Her smile tells me I'm goin' on and on and on It gets real damn hard To let your children grow And when you make mistakes It's the time you got to let em Know you know you know I wanna know her Show her I wanna let her see She's everything a heart could ever Want (Willow) When I call her name (Willow) Will she still hear me when She's everything a heart could ever want (Willow) When she looks at me (Willow) Her eyes just say it all She's everything a heart could ever Want (Willow) She's sometimes strange (Willow) So please, please, please don't change It ain't an easy thing To let a young bird fly And when they spread their wings

For the very first time You just wanna die

Everything a heart could ever want I know she's everything a heart could Ever want

She's everything that a heart could ever want
