You can show me the way, give me a sunny day But what does it mean without your love?

And if I could travel far, if I could touch the stars Where would I be without your love?

Whenever I get to feel, down and out I think about what you said and then I give up

If I could fly away, if I could sail today Where would I go without your love?

You can show me the way and give me a sunny day But what does it mean without your love?

And if I could travel far, if I could touch the stars Where would I be without your love?

And if I ever wonder away to far You come looking for me with open arms

I could forget my home, feel like a rolling stone But who would I be without your love?

And what does it mean without your love? Where would I be?
