

A World So Full Of Love

Roger Miller

I know how it feels to be alive with no desire to live
I know how it feels to die inside and try hard to forgive
And my way of finding out is 'cos a love just let me down
In a world so full of love, yet not enough to go around

I was once so proud to have her love that I could burst with pride
But that sunshine turned to storm and now that's all I feel inside
It's enough to make me wish that I could hide and not be found
In a world so full of love yet not enough to go around

I could sit for days and wonder and not find the answer still
By the time I die I wonder if by then I even will
I must live to be a hundred if I hope to live it down
In a world so full of love yet not enough to go around