

And Now The Day Is Done

Ron Sexsmith

The sun has gone
It arose but never shone
And now the day is done
Before it'd ever begun

It was such a pleasant dream
Till someone pulled the plug
It was a rude awakening
Guess, it's time we all woke up
And admit that something's very wrong

The sun has gone
It arose but never shone
And now the day is done
Before it'd ever begun

Now I guess we'll never know
Of the load you had to bear
When you walked that lonesome road
Did it lead you to despair?

I just hope you've found some comfort there

The sun has gone
It arose but never shone
And now the day is done
Before it'd ever begun

I just hope you've found some comfort there

The sun has gone
It arose but never shone
And now the day is done
Before it'd ever begun

The sun has gone
It arose but never shone
And now the day is done
Before it'd ever begun
