

Land Of The Living

Roo Panes

Where they go
That we shall cherish and that I wrestle
Don't want to be like the dust that settles
This empire of nothing
I find that I'm king of all these empty homes
That are ruled by my own flaws

But you can't be an old fire
If you are burning with a new flame
So remember that, you are never a forgotten name

Cause I know a land called the land of the living
It's the world beyond those curtains where we learned to play
I hear the voices of my childhood singing it's the world beyond those doorways
Where we use to play

Cause every moment
Is a chance to define what you want to become You're not a slave to things you've done

Be brave and be bold,
Be childish and old it's the same old story
Every life needs a hope of glory.

But you can't be an old fire
If your burning with a new flame
So remember that, you are never a forgotten name.

Cause I know a land called the land of the living
It's the world beyond those curtains where we learned to play
I hear the voices of my childhood singing it's the world beyond those
doorways
Where we use to play.

I was born to be free, you were born to free me,
I was born to be free, you were born to free me
I was born to be free, you were born to free me
I was born to be free, you were born to free me.

Cause I know a land called the land of the living
It's the world beyond those curtains where we learned to play
I hear the voices of my childhood singing it's the world beyond those
doorways
Where we use to play

I know a land called the land of the living
It's the world beyond those curtains where we learned to play
Oh we'll go back, we'll go back to the beginning
And well pick up on the trails of forgotten ways.
