

Darkside

Rosetta Stone

Bless me with patience
Throw forth with all your strength to me
And lend me your hand. In this hour take me safely
For my time is near
I look down upon this empty land
It's like crystal here
So warm, so pure, so calm, so clear
As we take the path
We shudder inside. No turning back
Have we gone to far
No guiding light as we venture on through the mist

The Darkside...

Passing over to another time
Another place. You can never be mine
I can't believe in fate. No truth in what you say to me
Fabricate your reality

You burn me out...

And physical pain dissolves away
I can't see how
You can be afraid of the words they said
If your thoughts allow. To take faith in what is done
And don't try to change this
It'll feel clearer then. This torchlight through the mist

There's none so blind as will not see.