Rosie Thomas

Put your pretty dress on It's time for you to go to the dance Tie your hair in ribbons and lace And wear pearls 'round your neck And all the pretty princes will see you All the pretty princes will see you Some day, some day Put your red boots on It's time for you to walk home from school Everyone will laugh, they'll point fingers at you They'll be cruel But cover up your ears and don't listen Because you'll know much better than them Some day, some day And they'll wave to you And they'll wave to you Put your red coat on And walk with a light in the woods If it gets dark don't get scared There's so much waiting for you Cover up your tears and don't show them 'Cause you'll know much better than them Some day, some day And they'll wave to you 'Cause they don't see you like I see you If they did, they'd see The nice little girl whose grown up To become homecoming queen Put your pretty dress on Put your red boots on And they'll wave to you And they'll wave to you And we'll wave to you And we'll wave to you Put your pretty dress on Put your red boots on Put your red coat on Put your pretty dress on Put your pretty dress on Put your red coat on

Put your red boots on

Put you pretty dress on