I'm Glad You Called

Roxette

Hate to say I'm glad you called But you know I always tell the truth It's been a while and lots of miles I wouldn't say I have been missing you

The first week I stayed in my bed
That summer went straight to my head
The first year without you
I walked like the dead

I hate to say I'm glad you called Even though it doesn't matter now There was a time I might've cared But I'm seeing someone else now

I don't have to think very hard To rewind every frame of my love I never I could never get enough Of your stuff

Look around look around Babe, I look around I look around look around look around Babe, I look around

Hate to say I'm glad you called
But you know I always tell the truth, baby
It's been a while and lots of miles
I wouldn't say that I've been missing you

The first week I cried in my bed That summer I hurt and I bled The first year without you Is hard to forgive

So hard to forgive So hard to forgive
