You'll never be forgotten You're always on my mind I look into the mirror A good friend is hard to find Would anyone please tell me If all was fixed before This year spring comes to early 'cause God has failed once more The pictures I have found You're face looks still the same Whenever I'm asleep My heart will call your name To tell about your life Is all I can do for you Your end has come to early