Take Me As I Am

Is there a place where all that I've lost Will be returned to me? And is there a day the souls that I pray to Are coming back for me?

Don't tell me it's all right It'll never be all right Why don't you come, why don't you come back? I need a love that's unconditional Why don't you try to understand? Why don't you come, why don't you come back? If this love is unconditional, why don't you take me as I am? Just take me as I am

The love that I seek, is it hidden beneath A wound that won't bleed? Look, is there something you want? Is there something you need from me? 'Cause I tell you now, these hands are empty And it aches in my bones to be here on my own without it Watching the love that I'm craving Getting further away from all that I wanted

So don't tell me it's all right now It'll never be all right Why don't you come, why don't you come back? I need a love that's unconditional Why don't you try to understand? Why don't you come, why don't you come back? If this love is unconditional, why don't you take me as I am? Just take me as I am

If you look in my eyes, you'll see Sorrow rising and falling Oh, 'cause the love that I'm craving's getting Further away from all that I wanted
