

In You I Trust

Rupert Holmes

I don't trust no magazine
I don't trust the price of gasoline
And when you say I must
I simply say, "Ooh, in you I trust"

Seeing is believing you
When I see your eyes, I'm receiving you
And when my faith goes bust
I touch you and, ooh, it's you I trust

In you I trust
In you I must
I do, I trust in you
When all is done, you are my one true blue
Everyone needs one sure thing
Someone
Someone who'll step in the ring

I don't trust the Sunday Times
Or these dollar bills that turn into dimes
When paper turns to dust
I still will say, "Ooh, in you I trust"

Politician's promises
Have made all of us doubting Thomas'
And as we all adjust our confidence
Still in you I trust

In you I trust
In you I must
I trust you more each day
You seem to mean exactly what you say
Friend and lover, lovely friend
Someone
Who I'll trust until the end

So it's true, I do believe
That you really have nothing up your sleeve
It feels so good to just love someone
I do, in you I trust

In you I trust
In you I must
I do, I trust in you
When all is done, you are my one true blue
Everyone needs one sure thing
Someone
Someone who'll step in the ring
And fight for you
