Breathe In

Open my mouth Eyes look out Breathing in the skin of every one of you It hurts to say But we're all the same Everyone has a different story We're all telling stories But we're talking at the same time It's time to go outside and try To spit from your mouth to mine We're burning from both sides