

You Are Blind

Ryan Bingham

She's careful and crazy
You think she's broken hearted
The sadness of the world is where the conversation started
You want to be with her, cause you think you can save her
But she likes the way she is, and says that's the way God made her
But you know that you can love her
With a love that lasts forever
So you hold her so closely
Cause you know that you are blind

She takes you many places
So you go there together
Ride's always stormy, your short will get better
She touches you so softly
Sometimes you can barely feel her
She tells you she's your lover,
But your mind, it knows better
And just when you want to leave her
She brings you into her body
And your head goes to sWinning
And you know that you are blind

So maybe tomorrow, she'll be gone forever
It's always her favor, if you'll be together
It's hard to imagine, that she is only human
She's really no different than any other woman
But you'd carry her forever
No matter what the distance
Because you believe her,
And you know that you are blind
