I am nothing but a shell of the man I once was

So you can put me to your ear and actually hear yesteryear's oc ean

I was in shape then

A much better built body of water with infinite waves and fatho mless depths

Where you could have deep sea fishing for compliments

And caught plentiful schools of reassuring comments

Now all you get is the boot

You fell for the bait and got hooked on what you thought I was Now we're both struggling to win this tug of war of the worlds Where we breathe the same air, it's just done differently

And I'm tryin to figure out ways to have comfortably survive ou tside your element

Compromising intelligence

I dabbled in watered down thoughts that filtered in from the ma in stream

I'm offering mind altering ideas that make the most quiet natur  $\operatorname{\mathsf{ed}}$  brain  $\operatorname{\mathsf{scream}}$

From exposure to the types of things that won't necessarily mak e you happier

They'll just give you a greater range of emotions

And I can feel myself getting lured into deeper oceans of fanta sy land

Where people think they're as safe as cartoons simply because t hey speak in bubbles

A sanitized safe-haven where you could face Satan and have his faith straightened

His new goal would be to dethrone Poseidon and have Neptune's p lace taken

They'd swashbuckle with their pitchforks

While Lucifer shit talks and rips forts of coral reef

For relief they be like "bitch walk"

From this oversized aquarium that daddy kept cleanly to unhealt hy degrees

Writing suicide notes with invisible ink on transparences

And posting them to the glass boundaries that surround the seas of change

Strangely enough, while bringing back the real

I could sense intense resistance so I had no other choice but to cut the line

I'm not saying you're overly naive
