Cottonmouth

Sam Sparro

It was just an ordinary afternoon I was sitting in the park Trying to forget all of my blues I wanted a little something to spark And so in god's green earth i did partake An unusual affair I forgot my woes while i fell awake I didn't have a single care Then i noticed something very wrong I was so parched i could not sing this song

Cottonmouth, cottonmouth You're so damn rough Cottonmouth, cottonmouth Woooooooo Cottonmouth, cottonmouth Don't know what to do Cottonmouth, cottonmouth So in love with you

In what was just an ordinary afternoon Became complicated In my intent to drive away my blues I got discombobulated I tried to get my cloudy head to think See I needed a solution But the only water i could find to drink Was full of pollution

Cottonmouth, cottonmouth You're so damn rough Cottonmouth, cottonmouth Woooooooo Cottonmouth, cottonmouth Don't know what to do Cottonmouth, cottonmouth So in love with you

I need some H2O Down my throat [x8]
