

She Found You

Samiam

what hel what do you got to look forward to i dont hear anybody knocking at you door your life has been a message in a bottle dumped in the ocean never reaching any shore at the point where nothing makes you happy these days are darker than they've ever been before here it comes again that old familiar feeling get sick and leave your troubles on the floor

just when i thought you were breaking down
just when i thought you were breaking down
she found you

shutting people out has become more like a reflex these could be your friends but they don't know you anymore dont mean to hurt you but it's my only self defense i'll make myself a mystery so they don't know who to look for look at yourself have you noticed your complexion looks like you've been spending too much time indoors in the mirror can you see your reflexion am i the only one to notice that you look bored once you fall apart you'll never be the same

what hel what do you got to look forward to
i dont hear anybody knocking at you door
your life has been a message in a bottle
dumped in the ocean never reaching any shore
at the point where nothing makes you happy
these days are darker than they've ever been before
here it comes again that old familiar feeling
get sick and leave your troubles on the floor