Reverse Faults

Sampha

There's a fault in my structure
It's always you and never me
I threw the blame and it shattered
And now there's broken glass praying to be healed
You struck a chord and I miss it
You damn near broke all the strings
When you get close, I get distant
Instead I'll drive away to a place unreal
And tell me how that feels

Took the break pads out the car
And I flew
I smashed this window in my heart
And I blamed you
This time it's taking me apart
Explosive truth
Except this time I went too far
And I hurt you
I wish I could take it back right now

Where's that smile when it hurt us?
Where was I when you called?
I shot the blame and it scattered
Now there's bullet holes spread across the walls
I took the shape of a letter
Slipped myself underneath your door
In this red room we'd be better
And not standing of all our wrongs
Now can we move along?

You took the break pads out the car
And I flew
I smashed this window in my heart
And I blamed you
This time it's taking me apart
Explosive truth
Except this time I went too far
And I hurt you
I wish I could take it back right
